TEACH YOUR SERVANTS.

They Need to Learn Many Things to Make Things Pleasant.

leasures of Housekeeping May Be Greatly Enhanced If the Work Is Done Neatly, Systematically and Economically—Some Valuable Hints,

Some things may be taught one's serv-ants about dining-room service which every good servant should know, and which are good servant should know, and which are not trifling matters nor of little impor-tance. The great majority of servants know only half their duties, and yet, truth-fully observes the Chicago Herald, they firmly believe they "know it ail."

Teach them that the setting of the table can make a frugal meal a success. Teach them to lay the creases of the table-cloth straight; a wavy line up and down the length of a table is a constant vexation. Teach them to use extreme care in making the arrangements of each cover exactly similar, and to see that the lines on either side the table between one claret glass and another, etc., are straight as a die, that all the distances are evenly proportioned, and that all the articles are placed so as to be as little as may be in any one's way, while as near as possible to every one's hand. Just above the forks a small salt-cellar and should be put for each person, as well as the individual butter-plate. Every knife and fork should lie with precision upon the cloth. One cover carelessly put on ruins the effect of the whole table.

Teach them to cut the breall the right size for soup, and to be exact about the thinness of each slice, as well as the necessity of having the pile arranged exactly even upon the bread dish. Teach them to be as particular in the laying of the sideboard and the side tables as in the table itself; that much of the charm of a well-served meal depends on what is placed on these pieces of furni-ture. Extra dishes and table utensils, vegetables and bread should be placed on the side table. The dessert, sugar and cream, sometimes the salad, and any thing that is a pretty accessory, must go on the sideboard. Teach them to wipe every dish be-fore leaving the pantry, especially such as, from their use, must needs come from the kitchen. A dish should no more be allowed to remain in a condition that will leave a rim on the cloth of the side table than to be placed on the table itself in such shape, Teach them careful habits of keeping the table-cloth clean, how to dip small spots in a bowl of boiling water and then set the bowl itself on the table, the cloth spread out over this slight elevation to dry, which it should be by the time the work in the butler's pantry is done up. Teach them the monetary value of each piece of china and glass, and that they are responsible for each individ-ual article. If the lesson seems a hard one to learn, enforce it by exacting payment for broken things. It is a disagreeable task to set one's self, but often is the only means to an end. Teach them that the silver (the small silver in daily use) must be counted after dinner every night, without fail. If a spoon or a fork is abstracted occasionally it serves as a test. Teach them to unlearn a habit which they have probably been taught, to lay all the forks and knives at each cover which will be used during the meal. It is far better to supply them as they are needed from the side table. Some persons dislike extremely to see such an array of imple-ments of war before them. Teach them the need of keeping a watch-Teach them the need of keeping a watch-ful eye on every person, so as to supply their needs without the necessity of being told, to keep the glasses filled, the butter replenished, a knife and fork always at hand, a spoon ready, etc. In spite of the many demands on them, a well-trained serv-ant will always do this. Teach them that to offer one dish without its accessories is a capital crime, as coffee without sugar, or small fruit without cream and sugar, etc.

Teach them to step about the room and round the table as if they were shod in vel-vet; in fact, see that they do wear felt shoes in the dining-room. Teach them the neces sity of extreme neatness about their per-sonal appearance. If you can afford to emsonal appearance. If you can afford to employ good servants see that they have a comfortable place for bathing, and make them understand that finger-nails can and must be kept clean. Teach them the suitability of clothes, and do not permit them to go about the house in your half-soiled finery. Remember the case of the young house-keeper who, having a new bodice made to a certain dinner-gown, gave the old one to her parlor maid, and, wearing the dress on the occasion of a dinner, was crushed on beoccasion of a dinner, was crushed on be-holding the maid come in to serve at table got up in the old bodice of her mistress' gown, long lace ruffles in the sleeves, and all. Teach them that every thing about the dining-room must be kept immaculate. Teach them to go to the left of persons at table in serving, but to the right with wines. Teach them the inestimable value of silence. both of look and voice.

Teach them that the highest value in servants is their willingness to oblige; that a reply to the effect that "such a thing is not my work" will not be permitted a second time, and that whatever you desire one to do must be done without demur. Teach them the value of your demur. Teach them the value of your smile or your frown, and that you always remember that they are human, but are paid to attend upon your word. Teach them to be able, in case of necessity, to do each other's work well and to relieve you of any anxiety and trouble if one falls ill or has an accident.

Remember that one's servants and service reflect one's success at housekeep-ing, and that there is no reason why serving, and that the the poor housekeepers either.

needed at first-for the first month-repeated and again repeated, in instructions plain and distinct. By that time, if you have shown that unlimited, unfailing patience, and a servant has not grasped your ideas, or most of them, further struggling is useless. You would better commence anew with some one also, until a person is anew with some one else, until a person is anew with some one else, until a person is found who shows adaptability and quickness of understanding. A good servant is such a treasure, housekeeping such a joy, when the wheels of the machinery are well oiled, that housekeepers should be willing to devote more time to training their servants, so that in the end that freedom from a weight is constant that all know as well. anxiety is constant that all know so well how to appreciate.

HIS TROUSERS BAGGED.

But He Had Enough Money to Pay for a Good Breakfast.

"The restaurant-keepers in this city are the most suspicious people I have ever struck," said a tall, fine-looking man, dressed seedily, to a San Francisco Alta reporter. "My name is P. H.

Pheriss and I am a native of Indian Ter ritory; in fact, in plain words, I am a half-breed. I own a vast amount of property in the Territory. I am not boasting when I say that I am worth fully $350,000. My wife and family have been living in this city for fully thirty years, and I have made my home here during that time, making occasional trips to my property in the In-dian Territory. Lately I determined to take my family and locate there per-manently. This morning early I dropped into a Market street restaurant—I had to catch the 8:30 boat—and asked for break fast. The landlady eyed me for a minute or so, and, noticing that my clothes were rather old and seedy, said to me:

"'Say, stranger, have you enough mone to pay for your meal?' "I was rather surprised, you bet, at this reception, but answered: 'Cert, ma'am,' and, opening my purse, drew out a $1,000 bill, and added: 'Do you think that is enough to pay for a breakfast in this hightoned establishment? Of course I don't want pearls ground into my coffee, not diamond-studded bills of fare, but if you think that is sufficient to pay for what I want, all right.' No sooner did the lady see the bill than she became the most ob see the bill than she became the most ob-sequious creature you ever saw. 'I beg your pardon, sir,' she said. 'Please sit down here.' I sat down at the table pointed at and the landlady ordered a clean tablecloth, clean glasses, napkins—every thing she could think of, in fact—and even went so far as to put a beautiful bouquet of roses in the center of the table. She would not let one of the waiters take my order, but coming to me berself, said: 'What would you see. "Feeling rather hot at the treatment I had received I said, shortly: 'Nothing at all, madam.

"'Nothing?' she echoed.
"'Nothing?' I replied. 'I want nothing in a house where they ask men whether they can pay for their meals first. Perhaps you would like to look at my purse, madam,' and I opened it and showed her twenty bills of $1,000 each. When she saw I had $20,000 on me you never saw such an astonished look me you never saw such an astonished look on a person's face as appeared on hers. She was almost speechless. I arose then, and, bowing to her profoundly, remarked: 'I hope, madam, that you will not in the future judge a man by appearances and ask im-pertinent questions of him because his pants are baggy at the knees. By so doing you will not lose valuable patrons, as you have this morning.' I departed, leaving the lady looking the picture of chagrin."

A GENEROUS MAN. Matt. McCabe, of New Brunswick, Ill., offers to pay five dollars to any person troubled with bloody flux, who will take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy acco directions and does not get well in the shortest possible time. One-half of a 25-cent bottle of this remedy cured him 25-cent bettle of this remedy cured him of bloody flux, after he had tried ofher medicines and the prescriptions of physicians without benefit. Mr. Mc-Cabe is perfectly safe in making this offer, as more than a thousand bottles of this remedy are sold each day and it has never been known to fail in any case of colic, cholera morbus, dysentery, diarrhoes or bloody flux, when the plain printed directions were followed. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

Cholera in Michigan,

Dr. F. D. Larke, of Rogers City, Michigan, says the epidemic of last year in Presque Isle county, in which so many persons lost their lives, was so many persons lost their lives, was choleric dysentery instead of cholera as first reported. He used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says it succeeded, where all other remedies failed. Not a single case was lost in which it was used. This remedy is the most reliable and most successful medicine known for colic, cholera morbus, dysentry, diarrhoea and bloody flux. Twenty-five and fifty cent bottles for sale by Osburn & Shoemaker. & Shoemaker.

This is the season of the year when the raw, cold winds create and havoc with the hands and complexion. Soft, white hands and a clear "peachy" complexion can be assuredly preserved by the frequent application of Dutard's Specific. If rubbed into the skin well it leaves no greasy surface. The skin absorbs it. Sold by William Pinniger.

EDITION. O'CLOCK

THE Hon. Mr. Cassidy, of the Eureka Sentinel, seems to be a little out of sorts. Hear him:

It is too early to talk much of such matters, but it is observed that the State papers are frequently speculating as to who the standard bearers next year of the respective parties are likely to be. State Senator Williams of Ormsby could most likely have the Republican nomination if he desired it, and made an earnest contest for it, but party exigencies are such that his it, and made an earnest contest for it, but party exigencies are such that his closest political friends are apt to be found using their influence to dissuade him from entering the race. As a hold-over Senator his is one vote sure for the re-election of Senator Jones, and being closely allied in personal and political friendship with the Jones following, there is hulle probability and being closely allied in personal and political friendship with the Jones following, there is little probability that he will throw open to the chance the personal and political complexion of his successor to run for Governor. It may therefore be assumed, we think, that the Gubernatorial candidate of the Republican party in the coming election will not be Senator Williams of Ormsby. It is the rankest sort of political "rot" to ever think of some of the other individuals who are mentioned on the Republican side in this same connection. Many of them are without decency or character or intelligence. We have had enough of this sort of cattle. During the present term Nevada is disgraced, as no State in the Union ever was before, by having a common fool, not to say knave as well, in the Chief Magistrate's chair. That will do for a good many years to come. If Nevada is blindly to persist in standing by the Republican party we shall insist, at least in all future elections, that that party must give us public officers of character and ability. But we did not intend so much to write of the probable Republican candidate as to say a word about what the Democrats are likely to do. Col. Hardin of Humword about what the Democrats are likely to do. Col. Hardin of Hum-boldt is most frequently mentioned as the Democratic standard bearer, and we may frankly say in this connec-tion, because we have no secrets in such matters, that we volunteered a such matters, that we volunteered a promise more than two years ago to aid him should be seek the nomination. Col. Hardin is a sound Democrat, a level-headed, strong practical man of business and affairs generally, and would make a most excellent Governor of and for the ptople. Besides, he halls from Humboldt, which comes nearer being Democratic, sack or no sack, than any other county in the State. Were he a candidate we should be for Col. Hardin first, because he is the right man, and secondly, because he comes from Humboldt county.

In the same article he has this to say: "The Republicans have not a man in the State, to use a slang, but trite phrase, who can beat one side of E. D. Kelly of the Silver State for Governor," and adds "that if Colonel Hardin refuses to run that he is the man for the Democrats to nominate." Contintinuing, Mr. Cassidy says: "We believe we have drifted around to the time when the people of Nevada will not fail to appreciate intrinsic merit in a candidate for high public office. If we are right Klare, who soldered for Martin Burke in this, Mr. Kelly would be practi- a tin box supposed to contain Dr. Cro-use for a man who says "platforms are made to catch votes." It would hardly be wise to elect a man Governor who publicly advocates the annexation of this State to Utah for the alleged reason that we cannot longer maintain a State Government. Mr. Kelly can afford to wait until Nevada has been reclaimed and a change comes over the spirit of his dreams. No, George, don't fret about the Republicans, they will nominate a good man and elect him, too. ance on the Republican State Conven Don't let your prejudices run away with your judgment, because you have been disappointed.

We learn of a dollar a day reduction in the wages of all employes at the Carson Mint. The Watchman who received $4 a day under the Cleveland Administration has been cut down to $3 a day under the Harrison Administration. A similar all-around cut has been made in all the Departments, so we are informed. How is this, anyhow? We thought the Republican party was to be the party of high wages. Has the g. o. p. no regard whatever for its ante-election promises? Don't all explain at once.—[Eureka Sentinel. We learn of a dollar a day reduction Such statements are calculated to do the "great unwashed" more harm than good, and it simply shows how malicious a disappointed politician can be. The fact is, the wages of a good many of the employes have been raised from fifty cents to one dollar per day, while the watchmen have been restored to $4 per day, notwithstanding the efforts of the Democratic Director, Kimball, to have them reduced. That fact has been published in every Republican paper in the State, and for the Democratic journals to persist in saying that the wages have been reduced, is little less than con-

Commissioners have any interest in common with the farmers of this State why don't they investigate the propriety of expending the $100,000 appropriated last Winter for the reclamation of our arid lands on some stream other than the Carson river, now that it has been determined that to do anything on the Carson and keep within the bounds of the money THE appropriated is impossible. The GAZETTE believes that the money could be profitably spent on the Truckee or the Humboldt, We believe half of it spent on the Truckee would illustrate the wise policy of the State in making the appropriation by demonstrating the fact that the Spring floods can be stored and a ditch constructed to convey the fluid to our arid lands would reclaim much valuable territory and give the next Legislature a chance to see what money will do, thereby enabling them to pass laws that will be applicable to the situation. Why wait a year and then let the money go back into the Treasury? Such a course would leave the State in no better condition than it was before, and the Legislature would know no more about the subject than they have been disappointed on the Carson it is no reason why they should throw up the sponge and default-and the sooner they re-

Discouraging Reports from an Old and Highly Respected Nevada

Miss Clapp saw Mrs. Judge Leonard in San Francisco and reports alarming news concerning her health. If Doctor Lane is not mistaken, she is suffer ing from an incurable disease which will materially shorten her life. Miss Clapp says her only hope is in Mrs. Leonard's extraordinary will power, which may carry her much farther than ordinary conditions could go. Mrs. Leonard has lived in Nevada for twenty years and has many fond friends here. She lived a number of years in Winnemucca and twelve years in Carson, during which time her busband was a judge on the Supreme bench. Since he came to Reno Mrs. Leonard has been in San Francisco for treatment and has not made the ac-quaintances in Reno she would have done if she could have settled here when the Judge came. Mrs. Leonard is now trying a new treatment and is receiving considerable encouragement. Her Nevada friends earnestly pray that Dr. Lane may be mistaken and that her lovely and useful life may be prolonged indefinitely.

The State Militia a Little Exer-

Much dissatisfaction is expressed at Governor Stevenson for not calling out the State Militia to pay respects to the memory of the late Lieutenant-Governor H. C. Davis. It is claimed that had the case been reversed and Governor Stevenson died instead of the Lieutenant-Governor the State Military would have been ordered out and that Governor Davis would have paid that Governor Davis would have paid the expenses himself had it been necessary. It would seem that as Adjutant-General of the State it would have been more in keeping with public favor to have had the funeral con-ducted with becoming military honors. The GAZETTE understands that the Reno and Winnemucca Guards were anyious to pay respect to the memory anxious to pay respect to the memory of the deceased Lieutenant-Governor and at their own exponse, had the Governor ordered them out.

SUPPOSE A CASE.

An Interested Party Discusses the Water Question. Dr. Hogan has an interesting letter in this morning's Journal. He says To make the case as simple as possible I will take two persons. In the Spring of 1860 John Doe came to the Truckee Meadows, located a piece of Truckee Meadows, located a piece of land and dug the first ditch that ever took water from the Truckee. What right had John Doe to divert that water from its natural flow? The God given the Monarch with a visit. from its natural flow? The God-given and undisputed right of every man to subsist himself and family, and in our State water is a necessity for subsistence. In 1862 Richard Roe took up a piece of land above John Doe and built a ditch. Did John object? No; the Idaho Democrat that the grass on the ranges is all gone and water is so scarce that stock is perishing for the bor, and went up the river to show him bor, and went up the river to show him where to take out his ditch, and then instructed him how to use it in irriga-tion. What right had Richard to the water? Just the same God-given right John had, and no other. There were thousands of inches of water running to waste, and neither ever expected to want for it. They prospered for five years, but on the sixth neither of them had any water. For this calamity has John any cause of action against Rich-ard? The absurdity of the question makes it unnecessary to answer it. the Sonoma ranch and bellow for water, and he thinks many head have died from thirst. He hopes by getting pumps in his new wells to be able to furnish his stock with water until rains come and the springs begin to flow water? Richards's right when he took out the ditch was equal to that of John, and do you hold that that furrow in the ground gives John The Agent of the Chinese Rake in Would it not be more in accord with

Struck with the estimonials praising Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, she sent for a bottle. The druggist, not having it, talked them into taking another mineral blood purifiers, the effect of the emptying of iodide of potash into a stomach already distressingly delicate was disastrous, almost prostrating her before the mistake was rectified. She then called upon Mrs. Fowler, of 327 Ellis street, whose name was among those cured by Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Mrs. Fowler said it was true that it had cured her. Again reassured, the vegetable compound was sent for and gotten. The gentle liver, kidneys and digestive organs, and its warm stomach tonics, were the very things needed, and the began improving and was like fiction, but the names can be given if ental Inscriptions Which Have Sur-vived Two Centuries. Thomas Kerr sends to the Rockford (Ili.) Gazette this inscription, which he copied with some difficulty from a time-worn monument is the churchyard of Grey-friars, in Edinburg:

liait, passenges, take heed what you do see;
This tomb doth show for what some men did

This tomb doth show for what some men did die.

Here lies interred the dust of those who stood Gainst perjury, resisting unto blood.

Adhering to the covenants and law Establishing the same; which was the cause Their lives were sacrificed unto the just Of prelates perjured. Though their dust Lies mixt with murderers, and other crew Whom justice justly did to death pursue; But as for them, no cause was to be found, Constant, and steadfast, zealous, witnessing To the supremacy of Christ their King; Which truths were sealed by famous Guthrie's head, head, And all along to Mr. Renwick's blood.

And all along to Mr. Renwick's blood.

Then follows these words:
From May 27, 1661, that the most noble Marquis of Argyle was beheaded, to the 17th February, 1688, that Mr. James Renwick suffered, were one way or other murdered and destroyed for the same cause, about 18,000, of whom were executed at Edinburg about 100 of noblemen, gentlemen, ministers, and others, noble martyrs for Jesus Christ. The most of them lie here.

In the same churchyard I came across this, of date 1367:

Reader, John Milne, who maketh the fourth John, And by descent from father unto son Sixth Master Mason to a royal race
Of seven successive Kings, sleeps in this place.
Majestic man, for person, wit and grace,
The generation can not fill his place.
May I present you with another epitaph, which cost man as little time and which cost me no little time and work to make out. It is from an ornate monument, of date 1612, in the grounds of the Cathedra of Glasgow:

To Doctor Peter Low, the Founder of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons.

Stay, pussenger, and view this
For under it lies such a one
Who cured many while he lived
Soe gracious he noe man greeved;
Yea, when his physic's force of tailed
His pleasant nurses then prevailed. His pleasant purpose then prevailed, For, of his God, he got the grace To live in mirth and die in peace. Heaven has his soul; his corpse this stone Sigh, passenger, and soe be gone.

A SMOKER PUNISHED.

He Makes Himself Offensive and Is Quietly Handcuffed.

Monday morning I witnessed a sensation al scene on the district railway, says the St. James' Gazette (London.) I got into the train at Gloucester road station. Seated opposite me were a pale, middle-aged lady and a slim youth hardly out of his teens. Next to them was a burly-looking 'squire, evidently up on a visit. We were going townward, and at South Kensington a thickset young man got in, who plumped himself down by my side. He had a lighted cigarette in his hand, and as the pungent blue smoke curled into the lady's face she coughed and looked distressed.

The youth said: "This is not a smoking carrage." "I'm not smoking," retorted the other, "and I dare say it will keep in until we get to the next station." "Tobacco smoke makes my mother ill and I must ask you to put out your cigarette." "I'm not smoking and I shall do nothing of the kind." "Then I shall make you." said the lad, whose face paled. He arose, when the other put out a fist, a single blow from which would probably have crippled that

And now a singular thing happened. The burly squire, who had remained passive, quietly produced something that glistened and before you could count three there was a click and the young man with the cigar-ette was handcuffed. Said the burly one: "You'll pick up your cigarette and put it out of the window, and then you'll apolo-gize to the lady and young gentleman for having brought a lighted cigarette into a non-smoking carriage. If you behave yourself decently I'll let you go at the next sta-tion; if not, I'll hand you over to the company just as you are, and they'll thank me for doing this little job." As the squire-detective finished the speed slackened and we rolled into the Sloane square station.

Before we left it the cigarette had been clumsily picked up with both hands and dropped out of the window. Muttered apologies were made, all that I caught being, "Very sorry—won't do it again—had no idea." The darbies were slipped off, the door was opened, and our compartment contained one the less. We tried to draw juire! between Sloane square station and Victoria, where he got out, but beyond a slight smile he would make no sign.

FALSE FIRE ALARM.

How an Innocent Old Gentleman Created a Good Deal of Excitement. A Cambridge gentieman was asked to buy a ticket to the firemen's ball and goodnaturedly complied, says a Boston letter to the Providence Journal. The next question was what to do with it. One of his two men-servants would probably be glad to use it, but he did not wish to show favoritism Then it occurred to him that he might buy another ticket and give both of his servants a pleasure.

Not knowing just how to proceed he in quired of a policeman where the tickets were to be had.

"Why don't you go down to the engine-house?" said the officer. 'The men all now you."

No the old gentleman went to the enginehouse but when he entered there was no one in sight. He had never been in such a place before, but was perfectly familiar with the use of electric signals. On the side of the room was a button, evidently connected with a bell, and naturally enough, after waiting a minute or two he put his thumb upon it.

The effect was electrical in every sense of the word. From the air overhead—so, at least, it seemed to the old gentleman in his bewilderment—men began to rain down, completing their toilets as the fell. The horses rushed out of their stalls, and, in a word, all the machinery of a modern enword, all the machinery of a modern engine-house was instantly in motion.

Amid all this turmoil stood the mild-mannered and innocent old gentleman, who, even now, did not suspect that he had touched the fire alarm. The men rushed upon him for information as to the whereabouts of the fire, but when he opened his mouth it was only to say, in the mildest accents:

"I should like to buy another ticket to the ball, if you please."
The situation was so ludicrous that no one could be angry, not even the men whose nap had been broken into, and the old gen-tieman bought his ticket and departed in Washington Irving was good-natured and delighted to do little deeds of kindness; but washington frying was goot-natured and delighted to do little deeds of kindness; but he was also a sincere man and would not pay even conventional compliments unless they were merited. Once, while in London, he and a literary friend were invited by a merchant to drive to his country house and spend a day or two there. The carriage stopped at the gate of the merchant's park. The host alighted, and asked his guests if they would walk through the grounds to the house. The friend started to get out, but Irving held him down by the coat, and they both drove on to the house; the merchant followed on foot. "I make it a principle," said Irving, when they were out of hearing, "never to walk with a man through his own grounds. I have no idea of praising a thing whether I like it or not. You and I will do them to-morrow by purselves."

AN INTELLIGENT CAT.

It Goes to Prayer-Meeting to Bring flome Miss Eliza Orangeblessom. Over at the West End, says the Boston Transcript, there lives a colored family which is noted for possessing a breed of cats which it seems to have a monopoly of - remarkably intelligent animals they are, if not always sleek and handsome. Not if not always sleek and handsome. Not long ago a lady on Beacon Hill who was in need of a servant, and to whom a daughter of this colored household had been recommended, called one evening at the little house up an alley where the people lived. A stout, black woman came to the door.

"Does Eliza Orangblossom live here?" the lady asked.

the lady asked.
"Yes, she do, ma'am; but she ain't in jes dis minute," said the stout, colored wo "But ef you'll step in, I'll sen' out arter

She led the way in and seated the lady in the living-room of the house. There were several cats present, one of which, a scrawny but alert-looking Maltese with green eyes, rubbed up amiably and in-quiringly against the visitor's dress.

"You come 'way from dar, you Malty! exclaimed the colored woman to the cat.
"You hyah me! Now you go ober t' de chu'ch and git 'Lizy, and bring her home.
You go fetch 'Lizy!" she repeated, holding the door open. The cat, after sidling and wavering on the threshold a moment, as cats always do in order not to appear too obedient, disappeared through the door.

"Will-will the cat bring your daughter?"

the lady asked in astorishment.

"Laws bless ye, ma'am, you wait an' see," said the colored woman. Some minutes went by, and the lady began to think that the mission was quite a failure, when the door opened and a strap-ping colored girl came in with the Maltese cat at her heels. The girl had hardly got in when she broke out:

"Mammy, did you send that 'ar Malty to

"Co'se I did." "Wal, now, I'm tired o' nabin' dat cat follerin' me up wherever I go. Seems like I can't go nowhere but you send her after me! Dere I wus in de pra'ar meetin' sittin' quiet in de pew listenin' to Matildy John-son relatin' her 'speriences wid grace, an' all 't once in walks dat cat right up de aisle, an' begins mewin' an' yowlin' at de pew door! Oh, dey wus all lookin' an' laughin' and nothin' fer me ter do, o' co'se, but ter and nothin' fer me ter do, o' co'se, but ter went right out. I hope ye'll 'scuse me, ma'am, but I reckon you wouldn't like ter be fotched home way from de pra'ar meetin' by a screechin' Maitese cat, neither."

The visitor could not help inwardly reck oning that she wouldn't. But her ad miration for the cat was so great that she made a point afterward to get one of he kittens. The animal, however, was a grea disappointment. Not that he seemed to b lacking particularly in intelligence-he was intelligent enough, on the contrary, to get himself lodged and fed and petted without rendering any return whatsoever. He site in the window pretty nearly the entire day watching the panorama on the street with evident interest, and never appearing to dream for a moment that he has any social Selling Maidens at Auction.

A singular custom obtains to this day in some of the towns on the Lower Rhine, namely, that of "selling" maidens at public auction. For nearly four centuries, on Easter Monday-auction day - the town-crier or clerk of St. Goar called all the young people together, and to the highest bidder sold the privilege of dancing with the chosen girl, and her only, during the entire year. The fees flowed into the public poor-box.

Oregon is one of the most productive State in the Union. Its vast mineral regions con tain gold, silver, copper, iron and coal. In immense tracts of grazing lands suppor thousands or cattle and sheep, and its exten sive agricultural regions produce all the cereals in abundance, the yield per acre being, in some instances, the largest in the world. Among the useful and valuable products of the Webfoot State may be mentioned Oregon Kidney Tea, which has proved a boon to thousands afflicted with pain in the back and kidney difficulties. It is purely of vegetable composition and never fails. Sold by William Pinniger.

The immediate symptoms of Dyspepsia. or Indigestion, are a distressing sense of weight, oppression and fullness in the stomach, heartburn, loss of appetite, foul breath, belching, flatulency, nausea, pains in the shoulders and breast.
